IADR Joins Other Health Organizations in Objecting to Coca-Cola's COP27 Sponsorship

IADR joined 59 other health organizations in co-signing a letter to Simon Stiell, Executive Secretary of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), to voice our objections to Coca-Cola's sponsorship of COP27. The letter was organized by the NCD Alliance, The George Institute for Global Health and World Obesity Federation and followed the announcement that Coca-Cola, a leading plastic polluter, will sponsor this year's COP27. Not only is Coca-Cola the world's leading plastic polluter, but its products are of vital concern for public health as the consumption of sugar-sweetened beverages are linked to obesity, poor oral health and noncommunicable diseases (NCDs), including cancer and diabetes.

New England Journal of Medicine Publishes Special Report on Oral Cancer Prevention

From September through December 2021, the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) convened a working group of 25 scientists (all of whom are co-authors of the report) from 14 countries to evaluate the body of evidence on primary and secondary prevention of oral cancer. The working group reviewed all relevant published studies and evaluated the evidence according to the updated preambles of the IARC Handbooks of Cancer Prevention. The preambles describe the objectives and scope of the program, general principles and procedures, and scientific review and evaluations. In addition, to strengthen the current published evidence with respect to areca nut products, the working group performed primary analyses of unpublished data from large studies. The Special Report offers a brief overview of the studies that were reviewed and the outcomes of the evaluation process.
